INT. CLASSROOM - MORNING

The teacher stands on a podium and presents a lesson to the students, who work at computers.

TEACHER
Good morning, ladies and gentlemen!

ROSALINA
He's sooooo boring!

JAYDEN
Yeah, and he's soooo old!

TEACHER
Yesterday, we learned how to... Uh, does anyone remember?

A loud banging noise is heard outside the classroom.

TEACHER
Gee, I wonder what that could be?

The teacher exits the classroom.

INT. HALLWAY - MORNING

The teacher steps into the hallway. He sees a trail of horrible green slime winding down the hallway.

The teacher kneels down, places his finger in the slime, and then brings it to his nose and sniffs.

TEACHER
Hmmm...interesting.

He moves his hand near his mouth, sticks out his tongue, and licks the slime.

TEACHER
Not bad. Tastes like chicken. A bit rancid, perhaps.

INT. CLASSROOM - MORNING

The classroom is in chaos. Two boys are wrestling on the floor. A girl stands on a chair and screams. Other students are talking and texting on their phones.

AILEEN

I wonder what happened to the teacher? He's been out of the room so long.

DIEGO

Why don't you check it out?

The door suddenly swings open and the teacher staggers in.

TEACHER

Nothing to worry about. Everything is under control. Where were we?

He raises his hand to scratch his head. His hand is now a hideous green claw.

TEACHER

I don't feel so well.

He collapses to the floor.
